The INSTITUTE OF PUBLIC HEALTH was established at the American College of Greece as of September 2015 and is fully funded by the Behrakis Foundation, Boston, MA.

The Institute, under the direction of Professor Panagiotis Behrakis, aims to develop scientific research, educational and communication activities in the field of Public Health. The primary focus is to increase public awareness on common but also on emerging Public Health issues.

It is with this purpose that the Institute organizes a series of Public Health lectures on an annual basis. The lectures are addressed to Health Professionals, Psychologists, School Teachers and Scientists.

Also welcome, is the general public and especially parents, who are encouraged to attend as they will receive updated, scientifically-based knowledge on the topics discussed.

A think-tank of multidisciplinary experts design the operational directions of the Institute on current, urgent and emerging issues in public health.

Aiming to drive a reduction of smoking in Greece, especially among young people, the Institute supports the “Smoke Free Greece” campaign and the smoking prevention activities at both National and International levels, through the “George D. Behrakis Research Lab” of the Hellenic Cancer Society.

In addition, the Institute organizes conferences, social events and conducts scientific research, presentations and publications.
